Subject: A.B. 1492 Timber Regulation and Forest Restoration Program
Date: Monday, December 15, 2014 7:03:22 PM

For too long our forests have been subjected to sedimentation, rising water temperatures, and pollution in numerous streams and lakes, imperiling fish and wildlife and harming forest values that Californians hold dear. The best way to develop methods for restoring damaged watersheds is to set up forestry pilot projects. Please implement such projects immediately to develop uniform standards and procedures for addressing the cumulative impacts of multiple logging projects in watersheds. A.B. 1492 provides ample funding for the projects, but to make sure the work on the ground actually goes forward your office will need to take affirmative steps.

Sincerely,
