I do not know how you are taking public comment on the draft, but given how important it is, it will be worthwhile to clarify that the "LA Moran Reforestation Center" is named in honor of a previous director of the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection rather than the largest city in California.

on p 89 of the draft

- Seedbank and nursery support is provided through the Los Angeles Moran Reforestation Center, which catalogues and stores approximately 42,000 pounds of primarily native conifer seeds available for replanting forest stands after fires, insect or disease outbreaks, or other catastrophic events.
