Hidden Heroes for the Environment

APRIL 19 | 12:30-1:30 P.M. PST

Come celebrate Earth Week with an inspirational discussion on environmental action and leadership. California is leading the world combatting climate change and protecting nature thanks to on-the-ground leaders who are taking matters into their own hands. Far from the political limelight in Sacramento, these Californians are showing how we restore our environment and expand access to nature in our own communities.

Each of us has a why – the reason we pursue our careers and passions. Join us to meet diverse leaders from communities across our state and discuss their why for taking action. We look forward to an energizing and forward-looking discussion!
