Droughts are natural in the American West but are becoming more severe due to climate change. While California is no stranger to dry periods, we need to fundamentally adjust our water systems and management to more extreme weather fluctuations moving forward.

Join us for a Secretary Speaker Series event where we will discuss how climate change impacts our drought cycles and how we continue to adapt to this “new normal” moving forward.

For more information about our Secretary Speaker Series visit https://resources.ca.gov/About-Us/Secretary-Speaker-Series