Thank you, DWR staff, for the presentation today. Much of the Department's criteria for GSP review (provided in the GSP Regulations) relies on the Department's interpretation of the "reasonable(ness)" of Sustainable Management Criteria established by GSAs and the "feasibility" of projects and management actions proposed by GSAs to avoid Undesirable Results. Can you speak to the approach that DWR is using when interpreting the "reasonable(ness)" and "feasibility" of those core GSP components?
